

New Website!

Written by SorceryNet

Sunday, 14 February 2010 09:06 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 February 2010 22:57

Hi folks,

Welcome to the new Sorcery Website, it's still under construction so stay with us while we work on it!

Some of the changes we're making:

- Re-working our channel listing and submission system to make sure it's kept more up to date and easier to browse.
- Sorting out our clumsy menu system so you can find what you want and need quicker!
- Forums: a place for you to give your thoughts and suggestions, with free forum hosting for channels on sorcery
- Free webhosting for channels on sorcery! Have a channel and need some space for a website? we'll be offering this service free of charge soon
- More news! as part of the new website we're making a commitment to interact more with our community offering you the chance to share your thoughts and ideas for the network as a whole, we'll also be giving more updates on any future changes or plans

We've got a lot more going on behind the scenes that we're trying to work on to make the network and the website more enjoyable so keep checking back here for more information.

PS. Folks we know you miss the SorceryNet Fairy and it will be making a show real soon, it just needs an update too. For those of you looking for help articles that you know and need until everything is on the new site you can access the old site at: <http://www.sorcery.net/old/>